

MIKHAIL PYATIGORSKY

Boston University, Department of Economics

SUMMARY OF TEACHING EVALUATIONS

Instructor, Introductory Macroeconomics, Summer 2006

Overall rating, mean: 4.3 (on a 5-point scale)

Examples of student evaluations:

“Lecture notes are precise and clear. Does a good job simplifying what the book complicates.”

“Very clear and concise presentation. Mastery of all teaching concepts.”

“Went over all concepts thoroughly. Kept the class interesting.”

“[Strength:] Relating topic to real world examples.”

Teaching Fellow, Introductory Macroeconomics (Spring 2008), Introductory Microeconomics (Spring 2006, Fall 2005)

Overall rating, mean: 4.0 (on a 5-point scale)

Examples of student evaluations:

“Very clear in explaining concepts, goes into good detail and emphasizes what’s important.”

“I love him! Great experience.”

“Great TF!! Really helped me understand the concepts. Thanks!”

“More interesting and useful than lecture.”